

SCHOOL OF LIFE FOUNDATION

The Architecture of Grace

Anchor Charts — Book 2 · The Framework

The complete set of classroom display charts for Grades 3–5 — print on cardstock or 11×17, post all year. Sixteen charts spanning the program's four ideas: identity, self-compassion, forgiveness, and grace.

What's in This Pack

Sixteen display charts, transcribed directly from the curriculum. Where a chart is two-column, co-construct it with the class at the moment its lesson indicates — ownership makes the vocabulary stick. Keep each posted for the rest of the year.

The Identity Web	IDENTITY	The Stone Practice	FORGIVENESS
Emotions Are Messengers	WELL-BEING	Forgiveness Myth Busters	FORGIVENESS
The Window of Tolerance	WELL-BEING	Forgiveness vs. Trust	FORGIVENESS
Inner Critic vs. Inner Coach	SELF-COMPASSION	The Forgiveness Path	FORGIVENESS
Three Components of Self-Compassion	SELF-COMPASSION	The Repair Protocol	REPAIR
Guilt vs. Shame	SELF-COMPASSION	My Three-Panel Story	IDENTITY
The Three-Part Accountability Map	SELF-COMPASSION	Grace vs. Doormat	GRACE
The Recovery Arc	WELL-BEING	Boundaries from Strength	GRACE

The Identity Web

Unit 1 · Lesson 1

IDENTITY

Five branches reach out from your name. Every web is valid; every answer is right.

Emotions Are Messengers

Unit 1 · Lesson 2

WELL-BEING

EMOTION	THE MESSAGE IT CARRIES
Fear	Something feels dangerous.
Sadness	Something I care about was lost.
Anger	A boundary was crossed.
Joy	I am in alignment with what matters.
Embarrassment	I care about belonging.
Loneliness	I need connection.

Emotions are not problems. They are data.

The Window of Tolerance

Unit 1

WELL-BEING

HYPER-AROUSAL

Too much — flooded, reactive, can't think straight.

THE WINDOW OF TOLERANCE

The middle — where you can think clearly and make a good decision.

HYPO-AROUSAL

Too little — numb, checked out, like you left the building.

Both states are real. They have names — and you can find your way back to the middle.

Inner Critic vs. Inner Coach

SELF-COMPASSION

Unit 1 · Lesson 3

INNER CRITIC says...	INNER COACH says...
"You always mess up."	"That didn't go well. What can I learn?"
"You're not as good as everyone else."	"I can try again. I am more than this moment."
"Why even try? You'll fail anyway."	"This is hard. Hard things are worth doing."

The coach is honest AND kind — never softer, never ignoring what happened.

Three Components of Self-Compassion

Unit 2

SELF-COMPASSION

Self-Kindness

Common Humanity

Mindfulness

Dear ___, What happened was ___. I know it feels hard. Everyone makes mistakes. You can still ___. I believe in you because ___. With love, ___.

Self-kindness · Common humanity · Mindfulness — every letter holds all three.

Guilt vs. Shame

Unit 2 · Lesson 1

SELF-COMPASSION

GUILT

- About what I DID
- Points toward repair
- Functional and forward-moving

SHAME

- About who I AM
- Points toward hiding
- Almost never produces growth

“Which column is that in?” — the one question that turns shame back into guilt.

The Three-Part Accountability Map

Unit 2

SELF-COMPASSION

- 1 What EXACTLY happened
Honest, not dramatized.
- 2 What was the actual IMPACT?
On others, and on me.
- 3 What can I do to REPAIR or do better?
A real next step — not self-punishment.

Filling in the map feels different from just feeling bad — that difference is the point.

The Recovery Arc

Unit 2

WELL-BEING

PHASE 1

Activated

- Flooded · reactive
- Inner critic loudest
- Do NOT attempt repair
- Do NOT make big decisions

PHASE 2

Regulating

- Deploy your toolkit
- Body strategy first
- Give yourself time
- Don't rush to Phase 3

PHASE 3

Reflecting

- Use the Accountability Map
- Use the Inner Coach voice
- Name what happened
- Think clearly

PHASE 4

Reintegrating

- Genuine apology
- Repair conversation
- Letting go
- Self-punishment can stop

Regulate first. Reflect second. Repair third. In that order. Every time.

Regulate first. Reflect second. Repair third. In that order. Every time.

The Stone Practice

Unit 3

FORGIVENESS

“I acknowledge what happened.”

“I have done what repair is possible.”

“I am choosing not to carry the weight of this the same way anymore.”

Place the stone down. Thirty seconds of silence. Some things you put down many times before they stay down.

Self-forgiveness is not a switch that flips. It is a practice you return to.

Forgiveness Myth Busters

Unit 3 · The Heavy Backpack

FORGIVENESS

Forgiveness means forgetting.

FALSE

Forgiveness means what happened was okay.

FALSE

Forgiveness is weakness.

FALSE

You must feel ready before you start.

FALSE

Forgiveness is the process of releasing resentment or self-blame — not to excuse behavior, but to free yourself from continuing to carry the weight of it.

Not for the person who hurt us. For us.

Forgiveness vs. Trust

Unit 3

FORGIVENESS

FORGIVENESS

- Internal
- For your own peace
- Can happen alone
- Requires nothing from the other person

TRUST

- Relational
- Requires demonstrated change
- Requires safety
- Never obligatory

Forgiveness is a gift you give yourself. Trust is earned — and never owed.

The Forgiveness Path

Unit 3

FORGIVENESS

- 1 Still Hurting
The wound is recent or raw. Your hurt is real.
- 2 Beginning to Understand
You can see why it happened — even if that doesn't excuse it.
- 3 Some Days Are Better
The hurt comes and goes. You are in the practice.
- 4 Choosing to Put It Down Today
A conscious decision — not permanent yet, but real.
- 5 The Hurt Is Getting Smaller
It still exists, but it has less power.
- 6 I Am Okay
You can hold what happened without being held by it.

Moving BACKWARD on the path is not failure — it is the practice.

The Repair Protocol

Unit 3

REPAIR

1 Both People Regulate First

Each checks their Window. Neither begins until both are inside it.

2 One Person Speaks

Specific action, honest tone. The other listens without preparing a reply — then switch.

3 Impact Acknowledged

The person who caused harm names the actual impact — no summary, no deflection.

4 Repair Action Named

What will change — a commitment of action, not a promise of feeling.

5 Re-Entry Agreed

What the relationship looks like going forward — not always back to what it was.

Both regulate first. Then speak, acknowledge, name the repair, and agree on re-entry.

My Three-Panel Story

Unit 3

IDENTITY

PANEL 1 · PRIVATE

Something that happened to me — a real hurt.

PANEL 2

The story I told myself about it.

PANEL 3

The story I CHOOSE instead — not denying Panel 1, but choosing the meaning I give it going forward.

Choosing a new story isn't pretending — Panel 1 stays true.

Grace vs. Doormat

Unit 4

GRACE

“Grace is not the same as letting people treat you badly. A doormat has no choice. A person extending grace has full choice — and chooses generosity deliberately. If someone keeps hurting you and you keep doing nothing, that is not grace. That is a boundary problem.”

Grace is a strength you choose — never a weakness you accept.

Boundaries from Strength

Unit 4

GRACE

FROM STRENGTH

- Comes from knowing what you value
- Focuses on what YOU will do
- Calm — not angry or desperate
- Protects your integrity
- Doesn't require the other person to change

FROM FEAR

- Comes from wanting the hurt to stop
- Focuses on controlling the other person
- Reactive — set in the heat of the moment
- May become retaliation in disguise
- Collapses if the other person pushes back

THE LIMIT FORMULA

When ____, I feel ____ because _____. Going forward, I will _____.

The most important word is the last one: I will. The limit is what YOU do.